

Weyerhaeuser Office Building

Everett, WA

The original Everett Weyerhaeuser Office Building was constructed in 1902 with locally logged old growth woods and was constructed around a 150-Ton concrete vault where company records were stored. In 1984 Cobra Construction was hired to complete renovations and relocate the building to its current Port of Everett site as part of an economic plan to stimulate growth in the area. After its relocation the Everett Chamber of Commerce occupied this century old structure for over twenty years.
